CHAMPAGNE SELECTION

During the early 1930's an international agreement was signed by most of the world's sparkling wine producers, officially recognizing the name "Champagne" as referring to the French region that bears its name. (Deep in the throws of Prohibition, the United States was the only producer-nation that did not send delegates to this critical meeting

Champagne Large Format

It was not until the 17th century when glass bottles were developed for the storage and production of wine. Before that, the winemakers almost exclusively vinified wine in barrels and stored it in vats. To make it last longer, resin or sugar was often added to the wine – alternatively, it was diluted. It was only due to the development of glass bottles that wines as we know them today were produced. As of the 19th century, glass bottles became the most important container for wine because glass is chemically neutral. This enabled a good storage and careful further maturation of the wine, especially pronounced with the larger variations such as the Magnum bottle

DESSERT WINE SELECTION

A sweet wine can be naturally sweet, rather by late harvest (sugar's concentration) or Botrytis (Noble rot). However, techniques have been invented to produce fortified wine by the action of adding alcohol in the wine at the beginning of the fermentation with the aim of stopping this one and keeping the natural sugar present in the juice
